

DETERMINERS

What are determiners?

Determiners are words which introduce a noun.
One or more determiners can be found before a noun.

There are different types of determiners.

DETERMINE!

Type of Determiner	Example	How to use in a sentence
Article	the (definite)	The dog needs to be walked every day.
	a or an (indefinite)	A dog needs to be walked every day.
Demonstratives	this that these those	That spaghetti was delicious. These grapes came out of that box.
Possessives	my your his her its our their	Her feet were bigger than his. Your bedtime is at 7 o'clock. His cakes sold out at the cake sale.
Quantifiers	six forty some many more both several	I ate four biscuits. We found many spiders in the attic. There is some mud on your shoes.

Remember!
Change 'a' to 'an'
if the noun starts
with a vowel.

Remember!
If a noun does not follow these words,
they are pronouns,
not determiners.
